CASE NO. 5:11-cv-00060 EJD

STIPULATED
PROTECTIVE ORDER
AS MODIFIED BY THE COURT

1. Purposes and Limitations

Disclosure and discovery activity in this action are likely to involve production of confidential, proprietary, or private information for which special protection is warranted from public disclosure and from use for any purpose other than this

1 litigation. The parties therefore stipulate to and request entry of this Confidentiality 2 Protective Order by the court. The parties acknowledge that this Order does not 3 confer blanket protections on all disclosures or responses to discovery and that the 4 protection it affords extends only to the limited information or items that are entitled 5 under the applicable legal principles to treatment as confidential.

6 Any motions filed relating to this order must comply with all applicable rules.
7 This Order does not allow any party to file anything under seal. The applicable rules 8 set forth the procedures that must be followed and reflect the standards that will be 9 applied when a party seeks leave to file material under seal.

10 2. Definitions

11 2.1. Party. A party to this action, including its officers, directors, employees, 12 consultants, retained experts, and outside counsel (and their respective support staffs).

13 2.2. Discovery Material. Documents, electronically stored information, and 14 things, regardless of the medium or matter generated, stored, or maintained 15 (including, among other things, testimony, transcripts, or tangible things) that are 16 produced or generated in connection with disclosures or discovery in this matter.

17 2.3. Protected Material. Discovery Material that is designated as 18 Confidential or as Highly Confidential — Attorneys Eyes Only.

19 2.4. Confidential Material. Information (regardless of how generated, stored, 20 or maintained) or tangible things which the Designating Party determines, reasonably 21 and in good faith, should not be disclosed to the public because it constitutes 22 confidential, proprietary, or otherwise sensitive information such as research, 23 development, financial, technical, sales or commercial information.

24 2.5. Highly Confidential — Attorneys Eyes Only Material. Confidential
25 Material that is especially sensitive, whose disclosure to another Party or non-party 26 would create a risk of serious harm that may not be avoided by less restrictive means.
27 By way of example, Highly Confidential — Attorneys Eyes Only Material may 28

1 include trade secrets or competitively-sensitive business information that may be of 2 value to an actual or potential competitor, customer, or supplier.

3 2.6. Classified Material. Official information that has been determined, 4 pursuant to Executive Order 13526 or any predecessor order, to require protection 5 against unauthorized disclosure in the interest of national security and which has been 6 so designated.

7 2.7. Receiving Party. A Party that receives Discovery Material.

8 2.8. Producing Party. A person or entity (including non-Parties) that 9 produces Discovery Material in this action.

10 2.9. Designating Party. A person or entity (including non-Parties) that 11 designates Protected Material. A Designating Party need not be the Producing Party 12 of the Protected Material.

13 2.10. Challenging Party. A Receiving Party that challenges a Designating 14 Party's confidentiality designation for specified Discovery Material.

15 2.11. Outside Counsel. Attorneys who are retained by a person or entity to 16 represent or advise that person or entity in connection with this litigation. Outside 17 Counsel does not include employees of a Party or Patent Prosecution Counsel. For 18 purposes of this Order, "Outside Counsel" includes any support staff regularly 19 employed by Outside Counsel. Outside Counsel does not include House Counsel or 20 any support staff employed by House Counsel.

21 2.12. House Counsel. Attorneys who are employees of a Party, but not House 22 Litigation Counsel. House Counsel includes any support staff regularly employed by 23 such attorney.

24 2.13. House Litigation Counsel. House Counsel who are involved in or 25 responsible for prosecution of this action.

26 2.14. Patent Prosecution Counsel. Any person or entity that provides services 27 or advice to a Party relating to patent prosecution or reexamination.

28 2.15. Counsel (without qualifier). Outside Counsel or House Counsel.

1 2.16. Expert. A person with specialized knowledge or experience in an area 2 pertinent to this litigation who has been retained by a Party or its Counsel to serve as 3 an expert witness or consultant. This includes professional jury or trial consultants.

4 2.17. Vendors. Persons or entities that provide alternative dispute resolution 5 (ADR) services or litigation support products or services other than Expert services, 6 and their employees and subcontractors. By way of example, Vendors may include 7 persons or entities that provide products or services relating to mediation, arbitration, 8 handling of Discovery Material, preparation of exhibits or demonstrations, forensics, 9 laboratory testing, photocopying, stenography, videotaping, translation, or storage.

10 2.18. Disk. A device or storage medium upon which Discovery Material is 11 produced in a form readable by a computer.

12 3. Scope

13 The protections conferred by this Order cover not only Protected Material (as 14 defined above), but also any information copied or extracted therefrom, as well as all 15 copies, excerpts, summaries, or compilations thereof, plus testimony, conversations, 16 or presentations by Parties or Counsel to or in court or in other settings that might 17 reveal Protected Material.

18 4. Duration

19 Even after the termination of this litigation, the confidentiality obligations 20 imposed by this Order shall remain in effect until a Designating Party agrees 21 otherwise in writing or a court order otherwise directs.

22 5. Designating Protected Material

23 5.1. Exercise of Restraint and Care in Designating Material for Protection.

24 Each Designating Party must take care to limit any such designation to specific 25 material that qualifies under appropriate standards. A Designating Party must take 26 care to designate for protection only those portions of material that qualify — so that 27 other portions for which protection is not warranted are not unjustifiably swept within 28 the ambit of this Order.

1 Mass, indiscriminate, or routinized designations are prohibited. Designations 2 that are shown to be clearly unjustified, or that have been made for an improper 3 purpose (e.g., to unnecessarily encumber or retard the case development, or to impose 4 unnecessary expenses and burdens on others), may expose the Designating Party to 5 sanctions.

6 If it comes to a Party's or non-party's attention that Discovery Material that it 7 designated for protection does not qualify for protection at all, or does not qualify for 8 the level of protection initially asserted, that Party or non-party must promptly correct 9 its designation and notify all Receiving Parties of the correction.

10 5.2. Manner and Timing of Designation. Except as otherwise provided in 11 this Order, or as otherwise stipulated or ordered, Discovery Material that qualifies for 12 protection under this Order must be clearly designated as Protected Material at the 13 time the material is disclosed or produced. Designation in conformity with this Order 14 requires:

15 (a) Material produced in documentary form. The Producing Party 16 may designate documents as Protected Material by affixing a legend "Confidential" 17 or "Highly Confidential — Attorneys Eyes Only" on each page. A Producing Party 18 that makes original documents available for inspection need not designate them for 19 protection until after the inspecting Party has indicated which material it wants copied 20 and produced. During the inspection and before the designation, all of the material 21 made available for inspection shall be deemed "Highly Confidential — Attorneys 22 Eyes Only". After the inspecting Party has identified the documents it wants copied 23 and produced, the Producing Party must designate the material in compliance with 24 this Order before producing the material.

25 (b) Material produced in electronic form. Discovery Material may be 26 produced in electronic form. If it is impossible or impractical to affix a legend to 27 each electronic file produced without altering its contents or its metadata, a Producing 28 Party may affix a legend to the outside of the Disk on which the Discovery Material

1 is produced. The designation indicated in the legend applies to all Discovery 2 Material on the Disk.

3 If a Disk is designated with a legend on the outside of the Disk, no 4 Receiving Party may copy or print any material from that Disk unless the Receiving 5 Party affixes a legend to the material that will be printed or copied. The Receiving 6 Party has the obligation to ensure that the legend affixed to the material: (1) reflects 7 the designation applied to the Disk by the Designating Party; (2) is affixed 8 permanently to the material; and (3) is prominently visible to each person who might 9 view the material, regardless of the software, computer system, or other means used 10 to view the material. If the nature of the electronically stored information makes it 11 impossible or impractical for the Receiving Party to fulfill these obligations, it must 12 confer with the Producing Party and/or the Designating Party and attempt to reach 13 agreement about how the material should be marked. If agreement cannot be reached 14 in good faith, any party may move for a court order concerning the manner of 15 affixing a legend to the individual material.

16 Nothing in this Order, nor any Party's stipulation to have this Order 17 entered by the court, shall be deemed to be an agreement by any party to produce or 18 to receive Discovery Material in any particular form.

19 (c) Deposition Testimony. A deposition transcript (or portions 20 thereof) may be designated as Protected Material by providing written notice to all 21 Receiving Parties and to the person who prepared the transcript within thirty days 22 after receipt of the original transcript. The Designating Party must designate the 23 individual portions of the transcript which are Protected Material. If only certain 24 pages (or portions of pages) qualify for protection, the Designating Party must take 25 care not to over-designate any material. The person who prepared the transcript must 26 affix appropriate legends to all subsequent copies of the transcript (or portions 27 thereof) to indicate the designations. All Receiving Parties who received a copy of 28

1 the transcript before the designation must affix appropriate legends to their copies to 2 indicate the designations.

3 (d) Tangible Items and Other Material. If Protected Material is 4 produced in a tangible item or some other form other than documents, electronically 5 stored information, or testimony, the Designating Party may affix an appropriate 6 legend in a prominent place on the exterior of the tangible item.

7 (e) Redesignation. If a Designating Party determines that Discovery
8 Material was not correctly designated at the time of production, it must promptly 9 notify all Receiving Parties of the correct designation. If Discovery Materials are 10 redesignated with a higher level of confidentiality than when they were originally 11 produced, all Receiving Parties who received a copy of the material before the 12 correction must affix appropriate legends to their copies to indicate the corrected 13 designations and take reasonable steps to retrieve all copies of the newly designated 14 material from persons who were previously given access to the material but who are 15 no longer permitted to have such access.

16 5.3. Inadvertent Failures to Designate. If timely corrected, an inadvertent 17 failure to designate qualified material as protected does not, standing alone, waive the 18 Designating Party's right to secure protection under this Order for such material. If 19 material is appropriately designated after it was initially produced, each Receiving 20 Party must make reasonable efforts to assure that the Protected Material is treated in 21 accordance with the provisions of this Order after receiving notice of the correction, 22 including reasonable efforts to retrieve all copies of the Protected Material previously 23 disseminated.

24 5.4. Information in Designated Material Available From Other Sources.

25 (a) Publicly known at the time of production. Discovery Material 26 should not be designated as Protected Material if the information it contains is known 27 and generally available to the public. Discovery Material that contains a mixture of 28 public and nonpublic information may be designated as Protected Material, in which

1 case the Designating Party must make reasonable efforts not to designate those pages 2 that contain solely information that is known and generally available to the public.

3 (b) Subsequent disclosure to the public. If Protected Material 4 becomes known and generally available to the public other than through the act or 5 omission of the Receiving Party or an inadvertent act or omission of the Designating 6 Party or Producing Party, such material will lose its protected status under this Order, 7 and a Receiving Party may challenge the designation.

8 (c) Information acquired through other means. Information contained 9 in Protected Material may be available to a Receiving Party through means other than 10 discovery governed by this Order, even if it is not known and generally available to 11 the public. If a Receiving Party acquires such information through legal means, this 12 Order will not prohibit the Receiving Party from disclosing the information acquired 13 through such other means. This Order does not alter any obligations or conditions 14 imposed on the Receiving Party by the circumstances under which it acquired such 15 information, such as acquisition under a nondisclosure agreement.

16 6. Challenging Confidentiality Designations

17 6.1. Timing of Challenges. Unless a prompt challenge to a Designating 18 Party's confidentiality designation is necessary to avoid foreseeable substantial 19 unfairness, foreseeable avoidable burdens, or a later-occurring foreseeable significant 20 disruption or delay of the litigation, a Challenging Party does not waive its right to 21 challenge a confidentiality designation by electing not to mount a challenge promptly 22 after the original designation is disclosed.

23 6.2. Meet and Confer. A Challenging Party may make a challenge only in 24 good faith and after conferring in good faith with the Designating Party. In 25 conferring, the Challenging Party must explain the basis for its belief that the 26 confidentiality designation is not proper and must give the Designating Party an 27 opportunity to review the designated material, to consider the circumstances, and, if 28

1 no change in the designation is offered, to explain the basis for the chosen

2 designation. Frivolous challenges, and those made for an improper purpose (e.g., to harass or impose unnecessary expenses and burdens on parties) may expose the Challenging Party to sanctions.

3 6.3. Judicial Intervention. If an agreement is not reached after meeting and 4 conferring, the Challenging Party may file a notice with the court, stating that an 5 impasse has been reached concerning confidentiality designations under this Order.
6 If the Designating Party persists in its designations, the Designating Party may file a 7 motion within ten court days after the notice is filed, seeking a declaration that 8 confidentiality designations are valid. Such a motion may not assert a basis for a 9 confidentiality designation on any ground that was not substantively discussed in the 10 meet and confer process. The motion must specifically identify the designated 11 material for which the Designating Party wishes to maintain the confidentiality 12 designations and set forth the basis for each designation. The Designating Party will 13 have the burden of persuasion in any challenge. If such a motion is filed, then until 14 the court rules on the motion, all parties must continue to treat the material in 15 question with the level of protection for which it was designated.

16 7. Access To and Use of Protected Material

17 7.1. Basic Principles. A Receiving Party may use Protected Material in 18 connection with this case only for prosecuting, defending, or attempting to settle this 19 litigation. Protected Material may not be used for any other purpose. Protected 20 Material may be disclosed only to the categories of persons and under the conditions 21 described in this Order. Protected Material must be stored and maintained in a 22 manner designed to ensure that access to it is limited as required by this Order.

23 7.2. Disclosure of "Confidential" Material. Unless otherwise ordered by the 24 court or permitted in writing by the Designating Party, a Receiving Party may 25 disclose any material designated Confidential only to:

26 (a) The Receiving Party's Outside Counsel and employees of Outside 27 Counsel to whom it is reasonably necessary to disclose the information for this 28 litigation.

(b) The officers, directors, and employees (including House Counsel) of the Receiving Party to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for this litigation and who have signed the Agreement To Be Bound By Confidentiality Protective Order (Exhibit A).

(c) Experts (as defined in this Order) of the Receiving Party to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for this litigation and who have signed the Agreement To Be Bound By Confidentiality Protective Order (Exhibit A), after the procedure in § 7.4 is followed.

(d) The Court and the Court's personnel.

(e) Vendors who have signed the Agreement To Be Bound By Confidentiality Protective Order (Exhibit A) and to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for this litigation.

(f) During their depositions, witnesses to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary and who have signed the Agreement To Be Bound By Confidentiality Protective Order (Exhibit A). Pages of transcribed deposition testimony or exhibits to depositions that reveal Protected Material may not be disclosed to anyone except as permitted under this Order.

(g) The author of any Protected Material, the original source of the information or anyone who previously had access to any Protected Material. By way of example, this includes an original recipient of a document that contains Protected Material.

7.3. Disclosure of "Highly Confidential — Attorneys Eyes Only" Material. Unless otherwise ordered by the court or permitted in writing by the Designating Party, a Receiving Party may disclose any information or item designated Highly Confidential — Attorneys Eyes Only to the persons listed in § 7.2 other than officers, directors, and employees (other than those persons listed in § 7.2(g) and House Litigation Counsel) of any Party.

1 7.4. Classified Material. Pursuant to Executive Order 13526 dated December
 2 29, 2009, Classified Material can only be accessed by persons with appropriate 3 security clearances. Accordingly, to the extent that a discovery request seeks 4 Classified Material, the responding party shall not be required to identify, describe, or 5 produce the Classified Material in its response except by way of a general statement 6 that "Responsive information includes Classified Material – Subject to National 7 Industrial Security Program Operating Manual (NISPOM) procedures."

8 At or before the time of its response to any discovery request that seeks 9 Classified Material, the responding party shall notify the appropriate classification 10 authority that the requesting party seeks discovery of Classified Materials. No 11 Classified Material shall thereafter be disclosed except as expressly authorized by 12 NISPOM § 5-510.

13 7.5. Disclosure of Protected Material to Experts.

14 (a) Request to Disclose Protected Material to Expert. Unless 15 otherwise ordered by the court or agreed in writing by the Designating Party, a 16 Receiving Party that seeks to disclose any Protected Material to an Expert must first 17 make a written request to the Designating Party. The request must include: (1) the 18 Expert's name and contact information, (2) a copy of the Expert's current CV, (3) 19 identification of the Expert's current employer(s), (4) identification of each person or 20 entity from whom the Expert has received compensation for work in his or her areas 21 of expertise or to whom the expert has provided professional services during the 22 preceding five years, and (5) identification of (by name and number of the case, filing 23 date, and court) all litigation in connection with which the Expert has provided any 24 professional services during the preceding five years.

25 (b) Objections to Disclosure of Protected Material to Expert. A Party 26 that makes a request and provides the information required by the preceding 27 paragraph may disclose the subject Protected Material to the identified Expert unless, 28 within ten court days of delivering the request, the Party receives a written objection

1 from the Designating Party. Any such objection must set forth the grounds on which 2 it is based.

3 (c) Meet and Confer. If the Receiving Party continues to wish to 4 disclose the Protected Material to the Expert after receiving an objection, it must 5 confer in good faith with the Designating Party to attempt to resolve the dispute. The 6 parties must confer about potential safeguards that would prevent inappropriate 7 disclosure or use of Protected Material.

8 (d) Judicial Intervention. If no agreement is reached after meeting 9 and conferring, a Receiving Party may file a notice with the court, stating that an 10 impasse has been reached concerning disclosure of Discovery Material to an Expert 11 under this Order. If the Designating Party persists in its objections, the Designating 12 Party may file a motion within ten court days after the notice is filed, seeking a 13 declaration that its objection is valid. Such a motion may not assert any basis for 14 objection that was not substantively discussed in the meet and confer process. The 15 motion must describe the circumstances, set forth the reasons for which the disclosure 16 to the Expert was requested, assess the risk of harm that the disclosure would entail 17 under safeguards proposed, and suggest any additional safeguards that might be used 18 to reduce that risk. The Party seeking to prevent the disclosure will bear the burden 19 of proving that the risk of harm that the disclosure would entail (under safeguards 20 proposed) substantially outweighs the Receiving Party's need to disclose the 21 Protected Material to its Expert. If such a motion is filed, then until the court rules on 22 the motion, the Protected Material may not be disclosed to the Expert.

23 8. Relation to Other Proceedings

24 If a Receiving Party receives an instrument issued in connection with any other 25 proceeding (such as a subpoena, request for production, or court order) that it 26 believes in good faith may compel disclosure of any Protected Material, the 27 Receiving Party must notify the Designating Party in writing (by fax or email, if 28 possible) promptly after recognizing that the instrument may call for production of

1 Protected Material. A copy of the instrument in question must accompany this 2 notification.

3 The Receiving Party must also notify in writing the party or court that caused 4 the instrument to issue in the other proceeding that some or all of the material 5 covered by the instrument is subject to this Order. A copy of this Order must 6 accompany this notification.

7 The purpose of imposing these duties is to provide the affected parties an 8 opportunity to protect their interests. Each party will bear its own burden and 9 expense of seeking such protection. Nothing in this Order should be construed as 10 authorizing or encouraging a Receiving Party in this action to challenge or disobey a 11 lawful instrument in another proceeding.

12 9. Unauthorized Disclosure of Protected Material

13 If a Receiving Party learns that Protected Material has been accessed or used 14 by a person or in a manner not authorized by this Order and is certain that such access 15 was not attributable to any act or omission by it, the Receiving Party must promptly 16 notify the Designating Party of the unauthorized access or use. If a Receiving Party 17 learns that Protected Material has been accessed or used by a person or in a manner
18 not authorized by this Order and such access or use may be due to an act or omission 19 by the Receiving Party, the Receiving Party must promptly do the following: (a) 20 notify the Designating Party of the unauthorized access or use, (b) use its best efforts 21 to retrieve all copies of the Protected Material that were inappropriately accessed or 22 used, (c) provide a copy of this Order to each person to whom unauthorized access or 23 use was available, and (d) request that each such person execute a copy of the 24 Agreement To Be Bound By Confidentiality Protective Order that is attached hereto
25 as Exhibit A.

26 10. Filing Protected Material

27 Without written permission from the Designating Party, Protected Material 28 may not be filed in the public record. Any Protected Material that is filed must be or a court order secured after appropriate notice to all interested persons

1 filed under seal. A Party that seeks to file anything under seal must comply with 2 applicable rules and orders concerning filings under seal.

3 11. Final Disposition

4 Unless otherwise ordered or agreed in writing by the Producing Party, within 5 sixty days after the final termination of this action (including appeals), each 6 Receiving Party must return all Protected Material to the Producing Party. The 7 Receiving Party may, at its option, destroy some or all of the Protected Material 8 instead of returning it to the Producing Party. This includes an obligation to return or 9 destroy all copies, abstracts, compilations, summaries, or any other form of 10 reproducing or capturing any of the Protected Material. Whether the Protected 11 Material is returned or destroyed, the Receiving Party must submit a written 12 certification to the Producing Party (and, if not the same person or entity, to the 13 Designating Party) by the sixty day deadline that identifies (by category, where 14 appropriate) all Protected Material that was returned or destroyed and that affirms 15 that the Receiving Party has not retained any copies, abstracts, compilations, 16 summaries, or other forms of reproducing or capturing any of the Protected Material.
17 Notwithstanding this provision, Counsel, and parties not represented by Counsel in 18 this action, may retain an archival copy of all pleadings, motion papers, transcripts, 19 legal memoranda, correspondence, or work product, even if such materials contain 20 Protected Material. Any such archival copies that contain or constitute Protected 21 Material remain subject to this Order.

22 12. Miscellaneous

23 12.1. Right to Further Relief. Nothing in this Order abridges the right of any 24 Party to seek relief (including modification of this Order) from the Court in the 25 future.

26 12.2. Right to Assert Other Objections. By stipulating to the entry of this 27 Order, no Party waives any right it otherwise would have to object on any ground to 28

disclosing or producing any information or item. Similarly, no Party waives any right to object on any ground to the use of any Discovery Material as evidence.

12.3. Inadvertent Production or Disclosure of Privileged Matter. Inadvertent production of documents subject to work product immunity or the attorney-client privilege shall not constitute a waiver of the immunity or privilege, provided that the Producing Party shall notify the Receiving Party in writing of such inadvertent production promptly after the Producing Party learns of such inadvertent production. If prompt notification is made, such inadvertently produced document and all copies thereof shall be returned to the Producing Party or destroyed upon request, and all notes containing or concerning such inadvertently produced documents or information contained therein shall be destroyed, within five (5) business days of receiving such written notice. No use shall be made of such documents during deposition or at trial, nor shall they be shown to anyone who was not given access to them prior to the request to return or destroy such documents. The party having returned such inadvertently produced material may thereafter seek production of any such material in accordance with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure by moving the Court, provided that the party seeking discovery may not assert waiver as a basis for production based solely on the inadvertent production.

12.4. Non-Parties. Any person or entity who is not a Party to this action may invoke this Order by written notice to all Parties and may designate Discovery Material as Protected Material in accordance with the terms of this Order.

1 Exhibit A: Agreement To Be Bound By Confidentiality Protective Order

2 I, , declare under 3 penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States that I have read and understand 4 the Confidentiality Protective Order that was entered in the United States District 5 Court for the Northern District of California, Case No. 5:10-cv-05142-PSG. I agree 6 to comply with and to be bound by that Order, and I understand that failure to comply 7 could expose me to sanctions and punishment in the nature of contempt. I agree that 8 I will not use or disclose matter that is protected under that Order, except in strict 9 compliance with that Order. I further agree that I submit to the jurisdiction and venue 10 of the above-referenced court for proceedings relating to that Order, including 11 enforcement or contempt proceedings, even if such proceedings occur after the 12 termination of the case in which the Order was entered.
